RJV 2)

Letter dated 29th Sept.1939, from the Hon.Gen.Secretary, National Planning Committee, Bombay.

I am sending herewith a letter from the Chairman of the National Planning Committee for your information regarding the business of our Committee. Under the new situation caused by the war and the developments which may follow, I have been instructed to carry on the planning work as much as I can whatever the difficulties may be. Meanwhile, provisionally the Chairman has suggested that a week from the 25th October may be reserved for the sessions of the Planning Committee in Bombay, and that you would be so good as to try and attend these meetings which will be held in the morning every day, say from 8 to 12 noon, in order to meet the convenience of busy members of the Committee, as well as to facilitate the meetings of Sub-committees in the afternoon. I trust this will be satisfactory to you.

The agenda will be in very general terms, namely, consideration of the Progress Reports from Sub-Committees and such other matters as may come up for discussion with the permission of the Chair.

To

All the members of the N.P.C. and to Chairmen and Secretaries of the Sub-Committees:

Dear Colleague,

I have already addressed a letter to you and pointed out that the war in Europe has cast an additional responsibility on us. There is no question of our stopping our work because of this war. Indeed our work has to be carried on with greater vigour because of this war. We cannot say what developments will take place in futurre, but it is quite certain that there will be great changes, political and economic, in India as well as in the rest of the world. Also that the industrialisation of India will take place rapidly. All this makes it incumbent on us to carry on our work and influence the vital decisions of the future.

2 It may be that future developments may put some obstructions in our way, more especially in regard to finances. We shall then have to carry on our work much more economically. What is important is that the sub-committees should continue functioning and gathering material and preparing their final reports . It does not matter so much if the National Planning Committee cannot function for a while as it should. If the sub-committees have done their work thoroughly, we shall be ready for our final meeting and for our final decisions and no further time will be wasted.

3 Therefore ,whatever happens, the sub-committees should continue to function. In case our funds are low we may have to reduce our expenses in many ways. The principal item of expenditure has been travelling allowance to members of the Committee and of the sub-committees. This may have to be drastically reduced. The Women's sub-committee have set an excellent example by decidding that no member of it should charge travelling allowance if she can possibly manage without it. Nor should any halting allowance be charged. If travelling allowance is at all charged, it should be on the basis of third class fare .

further, the women's sub-committee have made some separate collections for its own work.

4 I do not know how far it is possible for other sub-committees to follow this example, but I do suggest that in future Intermediate class fares only should be charged.

5 It is also desirable, in order to limit expenditure, not to have too many meetings of the sub-committees. Of course meetings should continue to be held at convenient centres, whenever necessary. The most convenient centres are Bombay and Calcutta. Bombay is particularly suitable as it has our central office and affords other facilities also. Calcutta can also offer special facilities. If it is really necessary, some other venue might be chosen. Much of the work of the Sub-committees might be done by correspondence.

6 I am sending this circular to you, and I am giving more detailed instructions to our office, so that whatever future developments might be, we might be prepared for them. It is possible that I might not be able to give as much time to the N.P.C. as I should like to. But I want the members to remember that I am excedingly keen on the work of the N.P.C. and have considered it of the utmost national importance, more especially at this juncture. I shall therefore give such time as I an possibly find for it and I earnestly hope that all other members will continue to interest themeselves in this work.

7 Provisionally we are fixing the 25th Oct.1939 for the next meeting of the N.P.C.in Bombay. Some of the Sub-committees will meet earlier in Bombay.

Yours sincerely,

Sd. Jawaharlal Nehru,
President, National Planning Committee.
